

Chugach members elect two directors to utility board

Chugach members elected two directors to the utility's seven-member board of directors. Election results were announced Friday, May 20, at the annual meeting.

The meeting, held at ChangePoint in Anchorage, was the first in-person annual meeting since 2019.

Sisi Cooper

There were 284 members who registered at the meeting and an estimated 400 in attendance overall.

Chugach members re-elected Rachel Morse and elected Sisi Cooper in this year's election. Cooper previously served on the board of directors from 2012-18.

In the 2022 election, 10,677 members of record—or 11.8%—cast ballots. Of the members who voted, 10,383 voted electronically, 195 used mail-in paper ballots, and 99 voted in person at the annual meeting. Chugach members also approved a bylaw amendment that allows more time for members to return paper ballots in the annual election.

Sunshine and smiles: Member Appreciation Event enjoyed by hundreds

For the first time, Chugach combined its annual meeting and member appreciation event, successfully bringing hundreds together on May 20 to enjoy the sunny weather and festivities.

Members took bucket truck rides, power plant tours, and played lawn games. Hot dogs and hamburgers were served, and members learned about Chugach and community services, energy efficiency and conservation, electric vehicles, and even zoomed around on e-bikes. {104734}

Chugach appreciates its more than 90,000 members every day and was happy to see so many come out for the event to celebrate being a part of a member-owned electric cooperative.

Chugach members win prizes

Chugach members who voted in the annual election and attended the annual meeting are reaping the rewards of participation. Nancy Darigo and Lee Madison each won a free year of electricity (up to 10,000 kWh) after voting in the election. All members who voted were entered into the prize drawing.

Member Luanne Pelagio took home the Chevy pickup, a surplus vehicle offered by Chugach, after being the lucky winner of the drawing from registered members who attended the annual meeting. Thank you to all of our members who took part in the 2022 annual election and meeting.
